480/N P17	Victoria Park	Albany Road	3	Park or garden	Public Park located between Albany, Park & Adelaide Roads. The park is recorded in HER - MCO56262 - with the following description. A Victoria garden, designed by James Hicks, was developed in the late C19 and provides a formal civic recreation & municipal park facility for the town. It is named for the Queen at her Golden Jubilee in 1889. The garden has a bandstand, formal gardens, latterly a bowling green, approximately 1960s with pavilion, tennis courts with associated buildings, including a functions room, a play area, public convenience & a War Memorial (MCO56263) which is Listed. Four decorative urns from the roof of the now demolished United Free Methodist Chapel (built 1865) have been reused to adorn the gateposts (MCO61797-9 & MCO61800) of the two original entrances into Victoria Park, from Albany and Park Roads. From the modern map evidence, there appears to be a smaller entrance from Adelaide Road, which is a more recent addition. The original layout of the park is visible on the 2nd edition OS map of c1908. The southern area, which included the ornate Victorian garden, is now mainly occupied by the later sport facilities & play area. Some of the original paths remain here, though, and in the northern part of the park, its figure-of-eight path layout, with a central circle (into which the 1920s War Memorial was inserted) survives, with some later additions. 655	West Park Playing Fields	West End		5 Other site, structure or landscape	Playing fields north of Redruth's former Boys Grammar School (now Krowji business centre), which are the site of the first Redruth Cricket Club (founded 1830). On the 1976 OS Map, a field is named as 'Cricket Ground' and a small building on the south side is labelled 'Pavilion'. Only the field is shown on the 1906 OS Map. Redruth Cricket ground is now on Trewirgie Hill. The site of the original cricket ground was encroached on along its south side by the building of the Boys School in 1907 and in more recent times by housing. It is now occupied by football pitches which extend further to the west and appear to be part of the playing fields of the present Redruth School & Technical College located to the north.	1841-78	Yes	Yes	No	Yes
