480/N P17	Victoria Park	Albany Road & Adelaide Road	SW 70281 41767	3	Parks & gardens,Public Access Sports Facilities (outdoor), Children's Play Area - Equiped, Outdoor Sports Club	The park is recorded in HER - MCO56262 :- 'A Victoria garden, designed by James Hicks, in the late C19 & provides a formal civic recreation & municipal park facility for the town. It is named for the Queen at her Golden Jubilee in 1889. The garden has a bandstand, formal gardens, latterly a bowling green, (approx 1960s) with pavilion, tennis courts with associated buildings, including a functions room, a play area, public convenience & a Listed War Memorial (MCO56263). 4 decorative urns from the roof of the demolished United Free Methodist Chapel have been reused to adorn the gateposts (MCO61797-9 & MCO61800) of the 2 original entrances from Albany & Park Roads. The entrance from Adelaide Road, is a more recent addition. The original layout of the park is on the 2nd edition OS map of c1908. In the northern part of the park, its figure-of-eight path layout, with a central circle (into which the 1920s War Memorial was inserted) survives. On the 1st Edition OS map c1880 the southern half of Victoria Park is occupied by "Pedn-an-drea Stamps" (consisting of buildings, settling tanks, tramway, shaft, flues & other associated features). 2 shafts were capped along the parks southern edge in 1990s (MCO56264). NP58	West Park Playing Fields	West End	SW 70397 655590	5	School Pitches (not mapped)	Playing fields north of Redruth's former Boys Grammar School (now Krowji business centre), which are the site of the first Redruth Cricket Club (founded 1830). On the 1976 OS Map, a field is named as 'Cricket Ground' and a small building on the south side is labelled 'Pavilion'. Only the field is shown on the 1906 OS Map. Redruth Cricket ground is now on Trewirgie Hill. The site of the original cricket ground was encroached on along its south side by the building of the Boys School in 1907 and in more recent times by housing. It is now occupied by football pitches which extend further to the west and appear to be part of the playing fields of the present Redruth School.	1841-78		Yes	Yes	No	Yes
